- 12 Barrington, Sir Jonah, Personal Sketches of His Own Times. With a Memoir, Notes & Corrections by Townsend Young. €250.00
 George Routledge, London 1869. 3rd edition, 1st thus. Medium 8vo. 2 volumes. xxxviii + (2) + 376 & xviii + 464 + (2 advts) pp. Bookplate of William Starkey. Frontispiece portrait in volume one. Original green cloth blocked in blind on panels & lettered in gilt on spine. Recased (in 1981) with end-papers replaced. Trace of mottling on volume two prelims & a little wear at cover extremis, else a very good clean set.
 Though this is described as the third edition, it is actually the first one which publishes all of Barrington's Sketches together. They were first issued in two volumes in 1828 and republished in 1830, these then being supplemented by a further volume in 1832. So this might perhaps be more accurately be described as the first complete edition.
 Jonah Barrington was born at Knapton, near Abbeyleix, Co. Laois in 1760. Educated at TCD, called to the bar in 1788, he was sometime MP for Tuam, and for Clogher from 1798 until the Act of Union in 1800. He became a judge of the Irish Admiralty and opposed the Union, while at the same time it appears that he was acting as a government agent to bribe others to vote in favour of it. He was knighted in 1807.
 A renowned (or notorious, if you will) duellist and a bit of a rogue, of whom it was said "that he had the same notion of blushing as a blind man has of colours", his extravagant ways led him to misappropriate court funds, for which he was eventually removed from office in 1830. Having gone to live in France in 1814, he died there in 1834.
 Somewhat like his life, his memoirs may not be all the unvarnished truth, but they are, however, amongst the wittiest written in Ireland in the nineteenth century, abounding with anecdotes and tall stories.
- 13 Barry, John. The Church of Saint Patrick in Ulster. €25.00
 The Diocesan Pilgrimage Committee of Down & Dromore, (No place) 1961. 1st edition. Small crown 8vo. 32 pp. 9 in-text illustrations by Denis O'D Hanna. A very good copy in lightly rubbed pictorial card wrappers.

British Printing Machinery Association, London 1980. 1st edition. Royal 8vo. 139 + (1 advt) pp. 16 double-sided colour plates. A very nice clean copy in dust jacket over pictorial card wrappers.
A handsomely produced catalogue contains which some very attractive plates and much bibliographical information on this wonderful exhibition which was held in September 1980 at three venues in Birmingham, including the Central Library, a 1980 built architectural insult, which replaced the demolished, to their eternal shame, beautiful 19th century building, and at seven other venues, including Belfast.
- 24 Bland, E. A. (pseudonym E. A. B. D.). *Pinchertown Farm - The Story of Maurice Hamilton. €60.00
Thomas Nelson, London 1898. 1st edition. Crown 8vo. viii + 9-359 + (1 blank) pp. Frontispiece. Light brown cloth with floral pattern & lettering in black & gilt title background on spine. Apart from just a trace of wear at cover extremities this is a lovely fresh copy. Scarce.
Loeber B163. Emma Alice Bland was born at Derriquin Castle, Co. Kerry sometime in the late 1850's. Her father Francis Christopher, who was High Sheriff in 1859, soon thereafter converted to the Plymouth Brethren upon which he left Derriquin to become a travelling missionary on their behalf. It appears that Edith Alice remained single. Her brother James Franklin sold the estate shortly after inheriting it. The castle was burned down in 1922.

- 27 Blessington, The Countess of (Edited by). *Heath's Book of Beauty - 1837. €35.00
Longman, Rees, Orme, Brown, Green & Longman, London 1837. 1st edition Crown 8vo. vi + 264 pp. Lacking all plates. Full gilt decorated calf & all edges gilt. Front inner hinge broken. A good clean copy of the text in an attractive binding.
The volume contains several pieces by Lady Blessington who was born Margaret Power, the daughter of Edmund "Buck" Power, at Knockbrit, Co. Tipperary in 1789. Forced by her drunken father at fifteen to marry Maurice Farmer, a sadistic brute, she bravely left him after three months. When he died in 1917 after falling from a window while drunk she married Lord Blessington. Though she mostly lived on the Continent, on his subsequent death in 1829 she moved to Mayfair where she carried on an affair with Count D'Orsay, her stepdaughter's estranged husband. She died bankrupt in Paris in 1849. She is perhaps best remembered today for her beauty and lifestyle, rather than her contribution to literature.

- 35 Browne, John. History of a Wound in the Neck in which the Operation of Tying the Common Carotid Artery was Performed with Success. €140.00
For the author, (Navan ?) 1817. 1st edition. Crown 8vo. 10 pp. Recent card wrappers with cloth spine & paper label on front panel. Traces of foxing & old stain mark on last page, else a nice clean copy. Rare.
John Browne, M.D. who is described as "Licentiate of the Royal College of Surgeons of Ireland" was later Medical Officer Dundalk Dispensary. The operation described here was performed only three years after taking his medical degree at Edinburgh and probably took place at Navan. His findings were first published in the 'Dublin Hospital Reports'. During his time at Dundalk (which included the Famine years) he is said to have been a very energetic practitioner, who amongst other things was instrumental in founding a free public library and the creation of the Fair Green in the town.
The subscription at the end says "Navan, August 1st, 1817" but there is nothing further to suggest where it may have been printed.

M. H. Gill, Dublin 1926. 1st edition. Post 8vo. x + 544 pp. Frontispiece portrait & 40 monochrome illustrations. Red cloth with gilt lettering & device on front panel. Some light wear on cover, else very good.
Edmund Rice was born near Callan, Co. Kilkenny in 1762. After being educated locally and in Kilkenny city he went to work for his uncle in Waterford. He became a very wealthy man when his uncle died, but the death of his wife in 1789 caused a crisis in his life which led him to turn away from business and devote himself to religion and to teaching, in particular the teaching boys from the poorer sections of society. Throughout the twentieth century the Christian Brothers, as his order became known, made a huge contribution to the education of boys in Ireland.

Hamish Hamilton, London 1958. 1st edition. Post 8vo. 224 pp. Blue cloth with gilt lettering on spine. A very good copy in lightly chipped dj.
Ralph Cusack was born at Portmarnock, Co. Dublin in 1912 into a wealthy banking background, but also one with artistic leanings, one of his cousins being Mainie Jellett, while another was Margaret Cusack, the Nun of Kenmare. He studied painting briefly before going to Cambridge where he got a degree in economics. However, his love of art won out and he returned to painting, becoming in time a member of the White Stag Group, but Patrick Kavanagh, showing perhaps more of his dislike of people with money than his capacity as an art critic, described him as an "arch-phoney." He died in France in 1965.

- 80 Emmet, Thomas Addis. Memoir of Thomas Addis and Robert Emmet. €850.00
The Emmet Press, New York 1915. 1st edition. Royal 8vo. 2 volumes. xlviii + 589 & xvi + 644 pp. 2 engraved frontispiece portraits & 105 plates, facsimiles, maps, &c. Decorated drop capitals. 4 page addenda loosely laid in. Bookplates in both vols. Green cloth with devices in gilt on back panels & lettering in gilt. Top edges gilt. Minor wear on cover extremis, else a very nice bright set. Very scarce.
Written by a descendant of Robert Emmet, the leader of the failed rising of 1803, this is a beautiful and elaborately produced set of books. Part biography, part history, part homagé. Though no limitation is given, it is very likely that, due to the high cost of such a production, the print run was quite small.
The bookplates are of Nicholas Frederick Brady.

Royal 8vo. x + 154 pp. Colour frontispiece, 6 colour plates, 100 full-page monochrome photographic illustrations, 13 fold-out plans, 56 in-text drawings & a large coloured folding map in a pocket on back pastedown. Decorated drop capitals. Errata slip. Paper boards & cloth spine with lettering in gilt. Some fairly moderate wear at cover extremities, else a very nice clean copy of a very well produced book. Scarce.

- 128 Jewry, Mary (Compiled & edited by) *Warne's Model Cookery with Complete Instructions in Household Management. €95.00
 Frederick Warne, London 1893. New edition. Post 8vo. (2) + vi + 728 pp. Double column. Colour frontispiece, 5 colour plates & numerous in-text illustrations. Adverts on end-papers. Original green cloth, blocked in blind on front panel & gilt lettering on spine. A little wear on cover extremis, but overall a very nice clean copy. Copies in such nice condition are very scarce.
 This noble volume contains "2835 receipts" of which "nearly half are original." The illustrations, which were "(executed at a great cost) have been prepared by Messrs. Kronheim from the objects themselves ... they will be doubtless be of much assistance to the Cook." Perhaps, but to me, they look as frightening and scary as nearly all old pictures of food, especially meat, look.
 There is a receipt for Roast Larks which contains a jaw-dropping "two dozen larks."
- 129 Johnston, T. J. *The Celtic Expansion. €35.00
 APCK, Dublin 1965. 1st edition. Small crown 8vo. 38 pp. A very nice clean copy in original pictorial card wrappers.
 T. J. Johnston was Canon of Christ Church, Dublin and this is the text of "A Lecture given during the Saint Columba celebrations, held in the Dioceses of Derry and Raphoe in 1963."
- 130 Joyce, James. *Exiles - A Play in Three Acts. €650.00

 Brown 1266. Loeber O47. The first edition was published in 1882, however, it is difficult to know if this is a first edition or a slightly later reprint.
 Richard O'Brien was born at Carrick-on-Suir, Co. Tipperary in 1809. Sometime Dean of Limerick, he was the author of three novels and also much popular verse which was mostly published in 'The Nation' under the pen-name 'Baptist'. He died in 1885.
- 151 (Limerick interest). Leahy, Father Timothy. Beyond Tomorrow. Preface by Leo McCann. €40.00
 Maynooth Mission to China, Navan 1968. 4th impression. Post 8vo. (10) + 132 pp. A very good clean copy in somewhat worn pictorial card wrappers.
 Timothy Leary was born in Athea, Co. Limerick in 1894. He went on to become a priest and serve on the foreign missions in China, later being made chaplain to the Canadian and American troops. All told, he led a very adventurous life which comes across with an unusual degree of literary ability in this little autobiographical sketch.
- 152 (Local government interest). *Acht Rialtais Aitiuil, 1941 / Local Government Act 1941. €35.00

 Loch Press, [London] 1907. 1st edition. Small crown 8vo. 38 + (2 blank). A little foxing on prelim & terminal blanks, otherwise a very nice clean & mostly unopened copy in original yapp edge printed tan wrappers. Very scarce.
 This is stated on the title-page as "Being Number One of the Loch Press series of Booklets: March, 1907." Brady and Cleeve give the place of publication as London, though this may be inaccurate.
 Born in Belfast in 1879, Joseph Campbell, in his youth "spent much time collecting Ulster traditional songs, translating and setting them to music." This was his third published book of poetry. Though never a prolific poet, he was, and remains, a much respected one. He died in Wicklow in 1944.
- 157 MacDermot, Frank. *Theobald Wolfe Tone and his Times. €25.00
 Anvil Books, Tralee 1968. 1st edition thus. Small crown 8vo. (14) + 306 pp. 8 full-page illustrations. Trace of mottling on prelims, else a very good copy in pictorial card wrappers which are slightly worn.
 Though it was first published in 1939, this biography still retains its place as an important study of Wolfe Tone and the background to 1798.
- 158 MacGiollarnáth, Seán. *Conamara. €30.00

This most famous of Northern Unionists, was actually born in Dublin in 1854. Having received his early education at Portarlinton, Co. Laois, he then went on to study law at TCD, becoming for a time Solicitor-General for Ireland. Perhaps his most remembered appearance as a barrister was for the Marquess of Queensberry in Oscar Wilde's infamous libel action, a case which is covered in detail in the biography. He died in England in 1935.
Only the first volume was written by Edward Majoribanks, the final two volumes being completed by Ian Colvin.
- 166 Malone, Rev. J. J. Wild-Briar and Wattle-Blossom - Verses. €125.00
Wm. P. Linehan, Melbourne 1914. 1st edition. Crown 8vo. x + 100 pp. Photographic frontispiece & 3 photographic plates. Numerous decorative head-pieces. Pale green cloth blocked in gilt. A little mottling on end-papers. Moderate wear at cover extremities, else a very nice bright copy. Very scarce.
Joseph Malone was born at Dunbrin, near Athy, Co. Kildare in 1863. Educated locally, then by the Christian Brothers in Athy, he was ordained a priest at Holy Cross College, Clonliffe in 1899, going almost immediately to minister in Australia. He published numerous pamphlets and books on poetry and on religious matters. This, his first book of poems, is much occupied with thoughts of his homeland. He travelled much and published a book on his wanderings. He made two return visits to Ireland before his death in Melbourne in 1948.
- 167 (Map). Heritage Map & Guide to Ancient Monuments in Ireland. €25.00

This is essentially a history of the order of nuns which was the brainchild of Margaret Anne Cusack (The Nun of Kenmare). However, she seems to have been an extraordinarily difficult woman to work with, pretty much succeeding in alienating almost everyone who fell into that category, to the extent that, though this Congregation was her idea, she was no longer around when it was eventually established in 1888.

- 170 McCarthy, Thomas. Warm Circle. €35.00
First Issue Press, Whitegate 1976. 1st edition. Small broadsheet. Six poems by the Waterford born poet printed on heavy card, folded in three & with illustration by Brid Galvin on front panel. A little light wear, else very good. Scarce.

Occasional traces of mottling on early pages, a few small tears & one page repaired with archival tape. Some wear on cover panels at lower fore-corners, but overall a good clean copy.
During Buckingham's reign as Lord Lieutenant the change was made in the "prescription by which a Chancellor for Ireland was always imported from England. His appointee was the able and eloquent Fitzgibbon, Earl of Clare." [p.172] Not many would see those two epithets as an objective description, for it is said that "during Fitzgibbon's ascendancy, the Irish political world collapsed into a state of entropy." [Ann C Kavanaugh]
