Ganesh, Madras 1926. 1st edition. Small crown 8vo. 20 pp. Frontispiece. Bound in slightly chipped French flaps with paper label on front panel. Scarce.
James Cousins was born in Belfast in 1873. He developed an interest in the Irish language and in 1897 moved to Dublin. While there he became involved with the National Theatre Society but differences between himself and W. B. Yeats eventually drove him away. In 1913 he moved to England with his wife where they soon fell under the spell of Annie Besant's theosophical movement. Pursuit of this philosophy led to their journeying to India, a country which remained home until his death in 1956.

- 47 Cox, Tessa (Editor). *The Beacon - Organ of the People's College. €25.00
The People's College, Dublin 1973. 1st edition. A4. Volume 7. No 1 (Commemorative Issue) of this journal. 22 + (4) + xxx pp. 3 in-text illustrations. A few small notes, else very good in stapled pictorial wrappers.

- 49 (Croke, Rev. Dr). Goepfert, Rev. Prosper. *The Life of the Venerable Francis Mary Paul Libermann - Founder of the Congregation of the Holy Heart of Mary. Preface by His Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Croke. €50.00
M. H. Gill, Dublin 1880. 1st edition. Crown 8vo. 558 pp. Frontispiece portrait & 1 plate. Brown bevelled cloth with borders blocked in black & blind, gilt lettering on spine & device on front panel. There is a little rubbing at cover extremis, else this is a very good copy.

Thomas Croke was appointed archbishop of Cashel in 1875, a position he held until his death in 1902. He is probably better remembered today for having a large sporting stadium named after him.
The book was written by Prosper Goepfert while at Rockwell College, Co. Tipperary, from where the dedication is signed, and no doubt while he was teaching at that institution. An inscription on the verso of that page says, "To Brother Dominie on the occasion of his Silver Jubilee / 18th July '84 / with my best wishes" seems most likely to be the author's.
- 50 Croker, Thomas Crofton (Collected by). *Popular Songs of Ireland. Introduction by Henry Morley. €25.00
George Routledge, London (1886). 1st edition thus. Crown 8vo. 320 pp. Slight toning of paper. Original red cloth with some wear, but internally, apart from an ownership inscription on the end-paper, good & clean.

Described by Henry Boylan as a 'revolutionary', the word barely captures the larger-than-life presence which Maud Gonne held in Irish life for some half-a-century. But perhaps in spite of her ongoing involvement in politics, history will best remember her as muse and inspiration of some of Yeats's finest poetry.

 Slocum & Cahoon C85.
 This was the first publication in the United States of an article which had appeared some six months earlier in London in the February 26 issue of 'New Statesman and Nation'.
 The article is by way of being a tribute to the tenor John Sullivan, who was born in Cork of a Kerry family. Joyce probably saw Sullivan as a kind of alter ego who had pursued the career of a singer which he had himself rejected, so on hearing that Sullivan was "prevented by the Italian ring" from singing at either Covent Garden or in America, he immediately flew to his rescue. Unfortunately his efforts on the singer's behalf never led to the recognition which he may well have deserved, but they have left us with this fine piece of Joyceana.
 "Just out of kerryosity howlike is a Sullivan ? It has the fortefaccia of a Markus Brutus, the wingthud of a spreadeagle, the body uniformed of a metropoliceman with the brass feet of a collared grand. It was last seen and heard of by some macgilliccuddies above a lonely valley of their reeks, duskening the greylight as it flew ... "
- 116 Joyce, James. Giacomo Joyce. Introduction & notes by Richard Ellmann. €95.00
 The Viking Press, New York 1968. 1st edition. Medium 8vo. xxvii + 16 pp. 4 folding & 12 full-page facsimile pp. Grey paper boards with paper label on front panel, cloth spine with gilt lettering. Spine rather faded, else an about fine copy in slightly rubbed slipcase.
 Giacomo Joyce (from Giacomo Casanova) is an account, in what Ellmann calls "his best calligraphy" of James Joyce's affair with Amalia Popper, a pupil of his in Trieste, who was also to serve as one of his models for Molly Bloom. Though it remained purely platonic, the relationship had for a time a profound effect on him and this impressionistic prose poem captures beautifully Joyce's passionate and deep feelings for the girl.
- 117 Joyce, P.W. The Origin and History of Irish Names of Places. €180.00
 Educational Co., Dublin / Longmans, Green, London / Phoenix, Dublin 1922, &c. Mixed set. Small crown 8vo. 3 volumes. xiv + 589 & viii + 538 & x + 598 pp. Green cloth with spine lettering in gilt & device on front panels. Inner hinges of volume one tender & small waterstain at top fore-corner of prelims, else a very good clean set with only minimal cover wear.
 Volume two is dated 1922, the other volumes undated, but are from some time around the same period. The bindings are exactly similar, apart from the word 'Phoenix' at the tail of volume three spine.
 P. W. Joyce (1827-1914) was born in Limerick. Educated locally he went on to become a teacher and one of the most notable scholars of his day. Several of his works, including this one, are as valuable today as they were when first published.

- 118 (Joyce, James). Beach, Sylvia. Shakespeare and Company - The Story of an American Bookshop in Paris. €120.00
 Harcourt, Brace, New York 1959. 1st edition. Post 8vo. xvi + 230 pp. 39 monochrome illustrations, vignette title-page & a few in-text illustrations. Beige cloth stamped in blue on spine. A lovely bright clean copy in about similar dj. Very scarce in this nice condition.
- A memoir of the writers who made the twenties famous by the first publisher of James Joyce's 'Ulysses'.
 This was published the year before the Faber and Faber London edition.
 Sylvia Beach was born in Baltimore in the United States in 1887. After some travelling in Spain and elsewhere in Europe she ended-up in Paris in 1917 where she studied literature for a couple of years before giving substance to her "obsession" by opening Shakespeare and Company in November 1919. She had no intention whatever of becoming a publisher at that stage, never mind to be midwife to the most famous novel of the twentieth century. Her patience with Joyce must have been infinite, but it certainly brought her much fame and notoriety, though no financial reward.
- 119 (Joyce, James). Bell, Robert H. Jocoserious Joyce - The Fate of Folly in Ulysses. €35.00

Item 149

- 149 Liddy, Pat. Dublin Today. €75.00
 The Irish Times, Dublin 1964. 1st edition. Small folio. xii + 172 pp. 78 full-page tinted illustrations, title-page vignette & 91 in-text line drawings by Pat Liddy. Tan cloth with spine lettering in gilt. A lovely bright clean copy in similar dj which has one tiny tear on the fold-over flap. Scarce in this nice condition.
 Subtitled "The city's changing face in text and illustration, selected from The Irish Times."
- 150 Linguet, Mr. [Simon Nicolas Henri]. Memoirs of the Bastille, Containing a Full Exposition of the Mysterious Policy and Despotie Oppression of the French Government, In the Interior Administration of that State-Prison. Interspersed with a Variety of Curious Anecdotes. €250.00
 Printed by J. A. Husband for Whitestone, Wilson, Walker, Burnet, &c., Dublin 1783. 1st Dublin edition. Small crown 8vo. 2 parts in 1. xii + 114 + 162 pp. Bound in full contemporary tree calf. Some loss (probably worm damage) of outer surface of calf, mostly on spine & front panel. Spine lacking label but retaining some gilt bands. Very slight worm damage on prelims & a few small marks, else a very nice clean copy. Very scarce.
 Not in Gilbert. COPAC locates a few copies.
 "Translated from the French of The Celebrated Mr. Linguet who was imprisoned there from September 1780, until May 1782." The original French text had been published earlier in 1783 in London where the author was then living. Its translation into English and publication in London and Dublin soon followed.
 Simon Linguet was born in 1736. He studied law and soon gained a formidable reputation as a lawyer and wit. It was his caustic attack on the Duc de Duras which lead to his incarceration in the notorious Bastille. His account of his time there was widely translated and became very popular on the continent, especially during the early days of the French Revolution. He died in 1794.
- 151 (Louth interest). Wooden House in Drogheda. €20.00

- 155 Macardle, Dorothy. *The Irish Republic. A Documented Chronicle of the Anglo-Irish Conflict and the Partitioning of Ireland, with a Detailed Account of the Period 1916-1923. €55.00
Preface by Éamon de Valéra.
 Irish Press, Dublin 1951. 4th (new) edition. Post 8vo. 1045 pp. Frontispiece portrait, 1 plate & 1 in-text illustration. 2 folding maps. Blue cloth with spine lettering in black. Cover a little worn & faded, but else a good clean copy in worn dj.
 Originally published in 1937 in London this was the first edition to be published in Ireland. Though for long considered one of the seminal works on this phase of Irish history, the preface by and, frontispiece portrait of Éamon de Valéra smacks somewhat of a certain lack of the preferred objectivity on the part of a historian.
- 156 MacCarthy, Colonel J. M. (Edited by). *Limerick Fighting Story. €55.00
 Anvil Books, Tralee. No date c.1965. 1st edition thus. Small crown 8vo. 256 pp. A very good clean copy in slightly soiled pictorial card wrappers. Scarce.

 This biography was first published in 1852 the year of the Duke's death.
- 158 MacGill, Patrick. *The Amateur Army. €75.00
 Herbert Jenkins, London 1915. 1st edition. Small crown 8vo. 122 + (6 advts) pp. Frontispiece portrait. Original cream cloth blocked in red. Trace of foxing on prelims & cover slightly faded, else a very good copy. Scarce in this nice condition.
 Patrick McGill was born in Glenties, Co. Donegal in 1891. His first book of poems 'Gleanings from a Navvy's Scrap-Book', published in 1911, was immensely popular and led to his becoming known as 'the navy poet'. Moving to London he began publishing novels to very considerable success. They remained so into the 1920's and for some time thereafter. However, by the time of his death, in America, in 1963 his reputation had largely declined, but he was re-discovered for a new readership in the 1980's.
- 159 MacKenna, John. *The Lost Village - Portrait of an Irish Village in 1925. €25.00

- 161 MacPiarais, Pádraic. An Mátair agus Sgéalta Eile. €150.00
 Wm. Tempest / The Dundalgan Press, D'n Dealgan 1916. 1st edition. Crown 8vo. (4) + 95 + (1) pp. Blue printed paper boards & cloth spine. Ink stain on fore-edge of later pages, just barely affecting margins, but not near text. Cover a little soiled & with light wear at extremis, but otherwise a good clean copy. Scarce.
 This was Patrick Pearse's second published collection of stories in Irish, and like those in its 1907 predecessor 'Íosagán', they are considered "important in the history of the Gaelic language and literature revival [as] they helped to establish a prose style based on spoken Gaelic rather than the archaic, literary Gaelic of previous centuries"
 Robert Hogan. Dictionary of Irish Literature.
- 162 MacRory, His Eminence Joseph. The Gospel of St. John with Notes Critical and Explanatory. €30.00

- 164 MacWhite, Eóin. Towards a Biography of Father Vladimir S. Pecherin (1807-1885) - A Progress Report and Bibliography. €20.00
 Royal Irish Academy, Dublin 1980. 1st edition. Royal 8vo. Proceedings of the R.I.A. Volume 80. Section C. No 7. 109-158 pp. Very good in printed wrappers.
 Pecherin was a Russian émigré and Redemptorist priest who settled in Ireland in 1851; he became the first chaplain of Dublin's Maher Hospital. He was falsely accused of bible-burning after a mission in Dun Laoghaire in 1855, but was cleared of the charge.
 The caliber of the evidence against him can be guessed from the following exchange;
 Mr Curran: How do you know it was a Testament you saw?
 Witness: I saw the word 'Testament' on the book.
 Mr Curran: Was it a New or Old Testament?
 Witness: It was newly bound.
- 165 Magill, H. The Progressive Irish Arithmetics - Standard V. €30.00
 Educational Company, Dublin. No date c.1910. 1st edition. Small crown 8vo. 80 pp. Staples removed, else a very good clean copy in slightly worn decorated wrappers. Scarce.
 "A man bought a horse, cow, and pig. The horse and cow cost £35, the cow and pig £21, and the horse and pig £26; find the price of each animal?"

 Paraclete Press, Blackrock 1994. 1st edition. Royal 8vo. xvi + 480 pp. Dozens of in-text monochrome & a few colour illustrations. Silk marker. Gilt stamped blue leatherette. Small college ex-lib stamp on end-paper, otherwise a lovely bright clean copy in original slipcase.

- 168 Mansfield, M. F & B McM. Romantic Ireland. €55.00

L. C. Page, Boston 1913. 3rd impression. Crown 8vo. Two volumes in one. xii + 276 & (2) + 314 pp. Frontispiece & 86 plates (many with printed tissue guards & coloured decorative borders) by Blanche McManus Mansfield. Lacking the map. Pictorial gilt stamped blue cloth. Top edge gilt. A few tiny ex-seminary library stamps, else a lovely clean copy with just a trace of wear at cover extremis.

The plates, which are not without merit, are unusual in that though printed on different paper they are included in the pagination. Some of the descriptions are also quite singular, turf-cutters, for instance, being called 'peat-choppers'.

Laois gets less than half a page, no real surprise in that but, as most of it is inaccurate perhaps we should not be ungrateful.

Item 160

- 169 (Map). Bartholomew's New Reduced Survey Coloured Map for Tourists and Cyclists. Sheet 2. Belfast and N.E. Counties. €35.00

J. G. Bartholomew, No place or date (Edinburgh, c.1900). Coloured map folded & mounted on cloth (28 x 21 inches approx). A few small instances of mottling, but overall this is a very nice clean copy in original decorated cover.

 Daniel O'Mahony, better known as Danno Mahony, was born at Ballydehob, Co. Cork in 1912. He joined the army in 1933 where his athletic abilities came to the fore and it was suggested that he try his hand at wrestling; this proved to be very good advice as he went on to become world champion. Sadly, he was only thirty-eight when killed in a car accident at Kilminchy, near Portlaoise, in November 1950. The statue to his memory was finally erected at Ballydehob in 2001.

 Sometime poet William Rooney was born in Dublin in 1873. He was a school classmate at Great Strand Street CBS of Arthur Griffith, and together they founded the 'United Irishman' newspaper in 1890, with Griffith as editor.
 He was an ardent Gaelic revivalist and though mostly fairly temperate in tone, he works himself into a passionate frenzy when it comes to sports other than Gaelic.
 "One hears of the British cricketer and his scoring as if he were some illustrious general who had hewed his way to fame through the ranks of thousands." It is generally agreed that he wore himself out in his exertions for the revival of Irish, leading to his early death in 1901.
